Hi,

I would like to propose that the rule regarding word limits be modified. We have run into multiple instances where a challenged patent has more than 20 claims or lengthy claims. In these instances, we run into the word limit and are forced to remove information. As a result, we have received decision in which the Board rules that there is not enough analysis or sufficient explanation.

For that reason, I believe that the word limits should be a factor of the number of claims being challenged and the number of words in the claims.

Best regards,
