software patents are crazy. computers are math machines and software patents are like patenting addition, subtraction and division.