I would be more restrictive of such things as software patents
Examples such as Amazon.com's one-click patent were allowed and had a significant legal cost incurred in getting it reviewed
I would subject ALL software patents to a simplicity rule as well