General Comment

Hi guys I am a small inventor and I recently got very lucky in the sense that I am currently working with a advisor that works with the innovation department at California State University Fullerton. My deep fear is that if everything goes good and we are successful that any big company can just come in and challenge my patent at the PTAB with my patent will surely get invalidated because I just don't have $450,000 to defend what was ALREADY allowed to me. Please I beg you help me.
