General Comment

It is ludicrous that there is even a notion of limiting one's right to defending themselves against very unjust and immoral patent trolls! The downfall of the US is shortly coming if the country continues to promote industry that is based on the commerce of trading what has already been valued, and the whole idea that someone can buy a patent, and then sue others, when the owner of the patent isn't willing to take on the action, just promotes the illusion of commerce for value that hasn't been further developed....it should be eliminated.
