IT STARTS WITH AN IDEA
America's largest state has strong innovative spirit, with more than 80% of the state's issued patents belonging to independent inventors.

PROTECTING INNOVATION
Over 11 million maritime containers arrive annually at ports across the country, like the Seattle and Tacoma seaports. Each year, U.S. enforcement officials seize over a billion dollars worth of products that infringe U.S. patents, trademarks, and copyrights.

A MARKED DIFFERENCE
Originally costing only $35 to register, the registered Nike “Swosh” logo has helped spur competition and a multi-billion-dollar shoe and apparel industry in Oregon.

THE EPICENTER OF INNOVATION
Silicon Valley has long acted as the world’s innovation incubator, with 1 in 4 patents issued to U.S. applicants from the region. Fueling dreams, California also leads the country as the state with the most issued patents in the high tech and biotechnology industries.

PROGRESS OF SCIENCE
The USPTO helps protect the creations and discoveries of innovators across the region’s diverse ecosystem, with programs tailored to various communities—from startups and entrepreneurs to the 32 federally recognized American Indian tribes and nations in Arizona.

INNOVATION IS NOT A GAME
The largest sector of issued patents from Nevada relates to entertainment and gaming with more patents issued to amusement devices than any other state.

TRADEMARKS IN THE TROPICS
Kona Coffee is a registered U.S. geographic certification mark, but Hawaiian Tropic is a registered U.S. Trademark. Come inside and discover the difference.
