11:00 a.m. – 11:45 a.m. Panel Discussion: The Age of Attribution?
An exploration of the use of unique, relational identifiers for humans/entities and their roles in relation to works, as a keystone in rights administration in the digital era (registration, licensing, monitoring, reporting, payment settlement, analytics, etc.). What standards are available to define the “people” who “do deals about stuff”? Who should operate them? Who should vouch for them? What are the pros and cons of open standards vs. proprietary standards, and can they reinforce one another constructively? How can/should the development of this field proceed in the era of GDPR and California CCPA?

- Moderator: Bill Colitre, Vice President & General Counsel, Music Reports
- Panelists: Greg Cram, Associate Director, Copyright and Information Policy, The New York Public Library
  - Michael Healy, Chair, ISNI; Executive Director, International Relations, CCC

- Creator Credits: Niclas Molinder, CEO, Session
1:20 p.m. – 2:10 p.m. Panel Discussion: Registries and Rights Management

One of the basic building blocks for the digital marketplace is reliable, up to date information about who owns what rights in what territories. A panel of experts discuss current database and rights management initiatives designed to streamline the ability to obtain needed information about works. How to incentivize capture and curation of “good” data? How does this improve the digital marketplace environment? What data are critical to the digital ecosystem? How do we create authoritative data sets?

Moderator: Paul Sweeting, Co-Founder of the RightsTech Project

Panelists:
- Mark Isherwood, DDEX Secretariat, Digital Data Exchange, LLC
- Peter Jenner, Founder, Sincere Management
- Niclas Molinder, CEO, Session
- Stuart Myles, Director of Information Management, AP

2:10 p.m. – 3:00 p.m. Panel Discussion: Licensing/Monetization

A panel of experts discuss the changing relationship between consumers, rights holders, and content creators and the value chains that connect the marketplace. What business models are emerging, and what models are becoming less important? What roles do emerging technologies play? What social/user needs exist? How can different sectors collaborate to promote a robust, interconnected digital content marketplace?

Moderator: Vickie Nauman, Founder, CrossBorderWorks

Panelists:
- Cheryl Davis, General Counsel, the Authors Guild
- Dick Huey, Head of Partnerships, Jaxsta
- Ken Umezaki, CEO, Dot Blockchain Media
