> Thank you for your efforts to position the United States to retake the lead in the next wave of technological innovation in areas like quantum computing, artificial intelligence renewable energy , and medical diagnostics devices and processes. Protection for discoveries in these fields are the absolute best way to promote progress in science and useful arts in our modern day. Providing investable institutions which are the backbone of a strong economy . As small businesses struggle to finance the innovations that will ultimately be used to better life, the USPTO assistances to me is to provide incentive to innovate. When innovators lose incentive it is to my belief that the economy would slow to a crawl. Quality of life would be challenged , the most useful information wouldn't make it to the people.
