Subject: Future Locations for USPTO Satellite Offices

Hello,

I am a young professional looking to become a patent agent. I live in San Francisco, CA and I believe having a west coast office will help revitalize California's economy immensely. Since San Francisco is located in the metropolitan heart of huge industries like the Computer Tech and Biotechnology sectors i.e Google and Genetech, hundreds of small startups are located in this area, thus patents for new technological advancements are made right here in the Bay Area. I encourage the USPTO to open a San Francisco office to help revitalize this region and allow obtaining patent rights for other young entrepreneurs in these bright and booming sectors a more enjoyable experience.

Thank you.
