Just about anywhere in the state of California.

The bay area is expensive but Sacramento is close by and has had huge drops in property prices. It has an airport 10 minutes away. It has a great culture, people, food, and art.

The California economy, to say the least, could use some stimulation.

For those who live there, it is a short drive to San Francisco, Lake Tahoe, Sonoma County and "Silicon Valley".

There are many green buildings being built in California that the PTO could move into. Hines is one of the world's leading property developer for green commercial buildings and they are located in San Francisco.
