I believe Austin, Texas would be a wonderful location for a USPTO Satellite office. Very innovative, cutting edge, many great universities within state to pull from. Many large out of state technologies are moving to Austin to be a part of the creative community.

Open an office in the Austin area and I will come work for you.

I think the satellite offices are a great idea and want to congratulate you on the Detroit pick for your first office. I was born in Detroit, and think it is great. I love the use of a historic building, so fitting for this ground breaking move.

Thanks for taking time to read my 2 cents.
