Dear Mr. Fowler,

I am writing to endorse the Multimedia Fair Use Guidelines. As a media coordinator, librarian and educator, I strongly endorse these guidelines. Faculty and students are eager to embrace technology and use the vast new resources available to them. However, trying to explain copyright and fair use etc., without specific guidelines often stops projects before they can start. These guidelines help to specifically define what can and cannot be used. When faculty and students approach me about creating multimedia programs, I can now guide them with confidence and straight answers. I believe these guidelines provide a valuable and much needed tool for educational needs.
