Mark Information

Mark Literal(s)

NATIONAL DE-ESCALATION TRAINING CENTER NDTC

Description of the Mark

The mark consists of the design of a concentric circle where the outer ring is black with a yellow outside and inside border and the wording "NATIONAL" in white is at the top of the ring and the wording "CENTER" in white is at the bottom of the ring. There is a yellow five-pointed star in the right portion of the black ring and in the left portion of the black ring. There is a red circle in the center of the design containing a horizontal band in yellow that contains the stacked words "DE-ESCALATION" in black and "TRAINING" in black. There are green decorative leaves above and below the yellow band in the red central section. The capital letters "NDTC" in black appear outside the round part of the logo. White otherwise represents background and is not part of the mark.

Color Claimed

The color(s) black, white, yellow, green and red is/are claimed as a feature of the mark.

Disclaimer

"NATIONAL DE-ESCALATION TRAINING CENTER"

For  Computer hardware and downloadable software to analyze data to detect cyber security threats; Computer hardware and downloadable software that allows for high speed data processing to detect cyber security threats; Downloadable computer software for monitoring and managing transportation networks and smart cities mobility, namely, for active traffic management, automatic traffic incident detection, management of traffic incidents and traffic events, providing response plans for traffic incidents and traffic events, vehicle location, corridor management, connected vehicle mobility tracking, toll systems integration, adaptive traffic signal control and ramp metering, traffic prediction, vehicle tracking and dispatch, viewing and controlling video cameras, and traffic monitoring and management to ensure traffic flow and safety; Laser based unexploded ordnance and landmine neutralization system comprised of target detection sensors, a high-power laser, beam director for engaging targets and operator controls; Downloadable computer software for ingesting, storing, indexing, archiving, tagging, searching, retrieving, visualizing, annotating, transmitting and digitizing video and imagery data types and metadata, namely, including, but not limited to, video data, still image data, wide area imagery data, commercial satellite data, multi-spectral and hyperspectral data, geospatial data, track location data, text data, and cyber network data; downloadable software for automated analysis of video and imagery data types, namely, person, vehicle, ship, object, face, and group, activity detection, recognition, and tracking, pattern recognition, deep learning, classification, artificial intelligence, and the association and fusion of information across data types; downloadable computer software for collection, editing, analysis, viewing, organization, modification, transmission, storage, exchange, sharing, querying, auditing, and tracking of data and information distributed to governmental, business, and other institutional customers; downloadable computer software for protecting, monitoring and visualizing computer networks featuring exploitation of cyber capabilities; downloadable computer software for mission planning and situational awareness in the Air, Space and Cyber domains in military and government applications; Electricity router for managing and optimizing energy loads within a building; Computer hardware and downloadable software for remotely monitoring environmental conditions and controlling devices within a building, facility, grounds, or designated spatial area; Environmental monitoring system comprised of meters and sensors that measure pressure, humidity, temperature and includes alarm and reporting functions; downloadable computer software for engineering design, project estimating, construction project management, facility operations, facility operations, and building information modeling; downloadable computer aided design software for engineering design in the construction industry, construction project management, construction design, and the design of buildings, civil infrastructure, transportation related facilities, industrial facilities and military and defense installations; downloadable computer software for water management in the field of water quality monitoring and assessment, watershed-based storm water planning and design, storm water utility development and implementation, combined sewer overflow analysis, flood control, sedimentation, river engineering, FEMA flood insurance studies, hydraulic modeling and design, ecosystem restoration and geomorphic assessment, dam safety analysis, and ground water development and management; downloadable computer software for water management in the field of aquifer storage and recovery conjunctive management planning, water rights and water availability modeling, reservoir operations analysis, in-stream flow assessments, and wetlands mitigation banking; downloadable computer software for management of capital improvement programs, construction projects, and related project documentation; downloadable computer software for use in energy assessment and capital planning; recorded computer software for use in energy assessment planning for collection, recording and analysis of data regarding current energy conditions, adequacy, inventory and usage in a building for the purpose of justifying funding, developing energy-specific construction plans, executing construction projects, determining energy utilization index, determining carbon footprint, and determining compliance with energy and environmental design standards; downloadable software for the reporting and tracking of engineering projects; downloadable software for maintenance of facilities; downloadable computer software, namely, computer software for collection, normalization, semantic enrichment, tagging and commenting, analysis, searching, faceted navigation, monitoring and alerting of data and information; downloadable computer software using natural language processing and semantic technologies for the management and analysis of data; downloadable computer software for discovery, enrichment, visualization, integration and analysis of disparate data and information; downloadable computer software for determining the cause of a software application crash; Downloadable software in the nature of a mobile application for collecting Light Detection and Ranging (LiDAR) data; downloadable computer software for managing transportation networks; downloadable computer software for collecting, correlating, aggregating, and exposing information for use in the intelligence and operation disciplines that allows structured operation and intelligence information to be shared vertically and horizontally as part of a flexible, user-defined workflow process; downloadable computer software for visualization, integration and analysis of disparate data in a Service Oriented Architecture (SOA) compliant platform; downloadable computer software for use in energy assessment planning for collection, recording and analysis of data regarding current energy conditions, adequacy, inventory and usage in a building for the purpose of justifying funding, developing energy-specific construction plans, executing construction projects, and for determining energy utilization index, carbon footprint, and compliance with energy and environmental design standard; downloadable computer software for integrating data from a plurality of disparate data sources for use in managing and analyzing intelligence information; downloadable computer application software for mobile phones, hand held computers, laptop computers, desktop computers, servers, and mainframe computers, namely, software for visualizing data from a plurality of disparate data sources for use in managing and analyzing intelligence information; recorded computer software for
